

ENV H 490A

Environmental Justice & Population Health

Environmental justice plays a vital role in promoting health and social equity

This course prepares students to critically examine environmental justice as a social movement, with a focus on environmental exposures and related health (in)equities. Students will explore the ways in which environmental racism, inequality, and injustice lead to disproportionate impacts of pollution on Black, Indigenous, and People of Color (BIPOC) communities, and learn methods to promote a clean environment and healthy, thriving communities across environmental justice topics.

Spring 2022
Tuesdays & Thursdays, 4:00 – 5:20
Hans Rosling Center 135 | 3 credits, graded

Open to all majors.

Instructor: Esther Min, estmin@uw.edu

Photo: Toban B, Flickr.com

ENVIRONMENTAL AND OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH SCIENCES
UNIVERSITY of WASHINGTON
School of Public Health

