Leaders from the Makah Nation in Washington State will discuss ways they continue to exercise sovereignty across ancestral homelands and waters, especially as related to the Olympic National Park, the Olympic Coast National Marine Sanctuary, the international border, and treaty fishing and whaling rights. Speakers will include Timothy J. Greene (Makah Tribal Council Chairman), Janine Ledford (Director, Makah Cultural and Research Center), and Rebekah Monette (Cultural Resource Manager). This session will be moderated by Joshua L. Reid (Snohomish), who is the John Calhoun Smith Memorial Endowed Associate Professor of History and American Indian Studies and Director of the Center for the Study of the Pacific Northwest.

This event is open to the public. Registration required: <https://bit.ly/borderlands-23>

This event is part of the Emil and Kathleen Sick Series in Western History and Biography, and the Simpson Center supported project Indigenous Borderlands in North America: Borders, Crossings, Histories, and Futures.

Co-sponsored by the Center for the Study of the Pacific Northwest, Center for American Indian & Indigenous Studies and Department of American Indian Studies and the Department of History. Accommodation requests related to a disability or health condition should be made by April 10, 2023 to the Simpson Center 206.543.3920, schadmin@uw.edu.
