

THE TIMES OF AIDS CULTURAL PRODUCTION

Film Screening and Conversation with Dr. Alexandra Juhasz and Theodore (ted) Kerr

When

Thursday, April 4 4 PM

Where

Petersen Room
Allen Library

Open to the Public

Speakers

Dr. Alexandra Juhasz

Theodore (ted) Kerr

About the Program

Join authors Dr. Alexandra Juhasz and Theodore (ted) Kerr as they discuss the role of time and cultural production amid the ongoing HIV response as explored in their book We Are Having This Conversation Now: The Times of AIDS Cultural Production (2022, Duke University Press). The event will include a screening of I Want to Leave a Legacy: The video/activism of Juanita Mohammed Szczepanski (20:41, Juanita Szczepanski and Alexandra Juhasz, 2023). Together Juhasz and Kerr will dive into the many values of memorial, and uses of their own “times of AIDS,” as method to witness, honor, make use of, and learn from the life and times of noted Black, disabled, and feminist AIDS video activist, Juanita M. Szczepanski.

The program is sponsored as part of a workshop on The Archive of AIDS that is part of the larger series for Knowledge of AIDS – Scholarly Networking Project on Social Studies of HIV/AIDS in North America. For more information, visit: <https://www.knowledgeofaids.net/>.

This work was supported by a collaborative grant from the National Science Foundation (NSF) Science and Technology Studies (STS) program (NSF, #2240822; #2240637; #2240673). The views presented do not necessarily represent those of the NSF or any other funder.